Q: What do I need to know about marine insurance if I am planning to navigate beyond Puget Sound this summer?

A: The arrival of summer means many yacht owners start to plan extended voyages to international waters. As a part of your planning, it is highly recommended you work with a broker experienced in the global yacht insurance marketplace to ensure you receive the coverage you need for your vessel and related liability. It all begins with a risk assessment to look at your planned ports of call as there are different requirements and laws in each country. You should work with a broker that specializes in global marine insurance to ensure you have the coverage that is vital to your voyage planning.
